Kimbrough	William Dr.	Louisa		1808	His nephew and friend Dr William Kimbrough, who accompanied him in his travels unfortunately followed him to the grave, the day after his death. He fell a victim to the yellow fever. Doctor Kimbrough, though younger and less known to him, who performs the painful task of announcing Mr. Yanceys death to his friends, is understood to have been a young gentleman of the most amiable character, and to have exhibited marks of intelligence from which his friends derived the most flattering expectations.	Richmond Enquirer January 30, 1808  Communication. From letters just received in Norfolk, by a vessel directly from Jamaica, it unhappily appears that Mr. David Yancey and Doctor William Kimbrough, of Louisa county in this state, lately, died in that island.
